From The Senior Warden

Death, Taxes, and “the things that are God’s”

Two big days are bearing down on us: Easter Sunday on April 21, and less than a week before that, income tax day on April 15, a bittersweet reminder of the old saying that nothing is certain in this world except for death and taxes. I think Will Rogers put it best when he said, “The main difference between death and taxes is that death doesn’t get worse every time Congress is in session.”

Easter, of course, is all about death, and life. Biological death is inevitable. It comes for us all eventually. Spiritual death, or separation from God, is also unavoidable, for sin separates us from God, and we all sin without exception. “The wages of sin is death,” St. Paul writes in Romans, but this form of death need not be permanent. Through the crucifixion and resurrection of Easter, Jesus atoned for our sins and bridged the spiritual chasm of separation from God that our sins create.

And this brings me to taxes. (Stay with me; there’s a connection.) One of my favorite passages from the Bible is in Matthew 22, when Jesus was questioned about paying taxes to the Roman government. The question was a trap – if he said “don’t pay your taxes,” he would be considered a dangerous agitator by the Roman authorities; if he said “pay your taxes,” he would lose credibility with the Jews who hated the tax as oppressive and a moral affront to their religion. Instead of answering the question directly,

Jesus poses a question of his own, and then provides instruction. Holding up a denarius coin, Jesus asks, “Whose head is this, and whose title?” The answer, “Caesar’s.” Then Jesus says, “Give therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar’s, and to God the things that are God’s.”

So when it comes to taxes, God tells us to pay what we owe. St. Paul writes, “Give everyone what you owe him: If you owe taxes, pay taxes.” But there is one debt – a huge one – that we do not have to pay on our own. By taking our sins upon himself in that first Easter, Jesus paid a debt that we all owe and that we all are incapable of paying. The full verse from the Romans passage quoted above reads, “The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.”

Jesus paid a debt that we cannot pay, but it remains for us to ask ourselves, what are “the things that are God’s” that we should give to God? I believe that the answer to this question is different for each individual. Each of us possesses unique gifts, and each of us has a unique calling from God.

Redeemer is blessed to have a great many individuals who are giving to the church and to the broader community in their own particular way. This is why the congregational life survey that we took last summer resulted in the overall assessment, “This church is spiritually vital and alive.” For a church of our size, we have an amazing level of energy and activity, and it takes help from a lot of people in a lot of areas to make that happen. If you haven't done so already, I urge you to ask yourself, what are your own special gifts that you have received from God and can give back to him through service at Redeemer or in our community?

I promise, you will find this much more fulfilling than paying your taxes.

Thanks be to God for Easter, for the promise of eternal life through Christ, and for all of the many blessings we have at Church of the Redeemer.

COMING INTO FOCUS

The Vestry has been working with Graham Kimak Landscape Design, LLC, to refine a concept plan showing improvements that could be made to the landscaped attractiveness on both sides of the curving church entrance driveway. In addition, more trees and plants for our spacious front lawn have been included in the concept plan. Incorporating the large patio you read about in last month's "Echoes" as well as a tastefully-done digital sign out front are also being explored. Investigation is occurring of the possibility of making this type sign become part of our existing large monument sign.

The primary purposes of these improvements would be to improve the visibility and attractiveness of Redeemer to passers-by and improve our ability to communicate upcoming special events or happenings at the church. The long-term impact of the improvements would be to increase awareness of the vitality and offerings of the church to the community. The goal: create an interest in visiting us to experience worship of the Lord, service in His name and fellowship.

At this stage the Vestry has provided feedback to the landscape architect about the initial concept plan. We've asked him to incorporate some suggestions made by our parishioners, then develop a cost estimate of the overall plan broken down into its major elements. This would give us the option to implement the plan on a piecemeal basis over time or proceed with doing all of it as drawn. Obviously, communication, financing options and assessment of support for proceeding will be a top priorities before any action is taken.

Christian Education

Spring is in the air!

After a cold and very wet winter, it is a welcome and beautiful sight to see all the flowers and trees blooming. What a great reminder that everything has a season. The trees and flowers may look withered and bare in the winter, but there are great things taking place during those cold and sometimes dreary days. Change may not be visible on the outside, but rest, nourishment, and growth are all happening on the inside. Just like Mother Nature has begun another spring season, I believe that we are also coming into our season of spring.

Father Mark, our interim priest, continues to do an incredible job of providing continuity and equipping us as we move forward in our search for a permanent rector. This last year has been a time of rest, recovery, and renewal for most of us at Redeemer. I am looking forward to the new growth that is taking place among all of us!

Sometimes, maybe we get a little too comfortable and are simply happy to keep things the way they are and not rock the boat. This is where Jesus steps in and shakes things up for us. We thought we knew the plan, and then He gently reminds us that He, is really the one in charge and only wants what is best for us and His church.

I am thankful that He is among us and dwells within this special place we call our church home. As we enter into this new season of growth and opportunity I encourage all of us to try something new. Share your ideas, volunteer your time, and grow with us both spiritually and physically. We will all be better for it!

All in His name,
Lori

The Peace

A liturgical exchange of greeting through word and gesture. It is a sign of reconciliation, love, and renewed relationships in the Christian community. It is initiated by the celebrant, who says, "The peace of the Lord be always with you." The people respond, "And also with you." The ministers and people may greet one another in the name of the Lord (BCP 332). Any appropriate words of greeting may be used in the exchange of peace that follows between individuals (BCP 407). The gesture of greeting has been expressed in a variety of ways, including a kiss on the cheek, an embrace, a handclasp, or a bow. The peace is also known as the kiss of peace and the Pax (from the Latin, "peace").

The peace is an ancient Christian practice. The earliest references to the peace may be found in writings concerning the baptismal liturgies. After the baptism and the laying on of hands and anointing by the bishop, the newly baptized were included in the exchange of the peace for the first time.

In the late middle ages, a wooden plaque or plate with a projecting handle was used to pass the peace without direct personal contact. It had an image of the crucifixion or another religious subject on the face. It was known as a Pax Board, Pax Brede, or Osculatorium. It was first kissed by the celebrant, and then passed to other ministers and members of the congregation who also kissed it. The custom of passing the peace by use of a Pax Board is now obsolete.

Gary Powell in the Ukraine

Transforming Roma Communities

Gary Powell has been having an impactful ministry with the Roma communities of Uzhgorod as he visits families in their homes and attends church home groups. Gary is visiting a home group in the Uzhansky Roma Camp where testimonies of healing were shared, and prayers of thanksgiving were sent to heaven. Gary has built such a reputation of love that he is blessed to be invited into homes that most non-Roma would never be allowed to enter.

Gary has also been working with Darina, the only Christian in the Shakhta Roma Camp, who leads a small group of those seeking Jesus. She once ran a camp store, but her lack of business acumen resulted in bankruptcy. She has asked us to help her re-establish the business and we placed a condition of our involvement that she receives Christian business training through a Christian Finance Club run through our lead church. This Finance Club has agreed to mentor her but shared that such training is done better within a group that shares their struggles and successes together. So, we pitched the idea to the Roma Church of Jesus Christ who immediately recruited six other people from their church who wanted this training in Christian business practices. This is another example of "bringing people together to help the oppressed."

Pastoral Care Ministry

Eucharistic Visitor (EV)

There is a need within the Pastoral Care Ministry for at least two or three additional Eucharistic Visitors or EV's as they are also referred. EV ministry consists of lay people who have been trained to take and minister the Eucharist/Sacraments to those in our parish family who cannot attend church.

For example those who are:

- Home bound because of ongoing illness, recovering from a hospital visit, no longer have transportation means, etc
- In a hospital or rehabilitation center, or for some other reason is not able to attend church service

You will be trained, shadow an experienced EV during their visits, then lead a visit or two with the experienced EV shadowing you, so you can better understand what it is like putting into practice what you have learned. Then when you feel comfortable, you will be given your own wings to fly.

This ministry is a great way to become more involved with your church, interact, and learn more with your fellow church members. If you feel that this might be a ministry that the Lord is calling you to help with, please contact Sue Bannio in the parish office, or myself.
