From The Senior Warden

One Microscopic Cell in the Body of Christ

In a recent Sunday School class, we were talking about the word “mission,” and I had to confess to the class that this is a scary word for me. It intimidates me, because I know that I am not up to the task. Thank God for Gary Powell, because there is no way I could ever do what he is doing. I do not have the faith or the courage to pursue anything even approaching the mission he has taken on.

As Christians, we are called to be the body of Christ in this broken world; to do what we can to alleviate misery and need; to work against violence, strife, injustice, and exploitation; and not to give in to weakness, selfishness, or fear in those efforts.

But what can one person do? When there is so much misery, pain, and need everywhere, how can one person even begin to alleviate it? In the face of so much hatred, strife, and violence all over the world, what can one person do to bring about peace and reconciliation? With injustice and exploitation rampant in our society, how can any of us avoid simply throwing up our arms in apathy and despair?

A poignant answer to these questions may be found in the words of 19th-century American writer and historian, Edward Everett Hale:

“I am only one, but still I am one. I cannot do everything, but still I can do something. And because I cannot do everything, I will not refuse to do something that I can do.”

Someone in that Sunday School class captured this thought more simply:

With that in mind, here are a few possibilities of what one person can do, starting small, starting here, and starting now:

1. Pray. If you find yourself daunted by the immensity of the pain and need in the world, and wondering what on earth you can do to make it better, one thing – the best thing – you can do is pray. Jesus said, “Whatever you ask in faith will be given to you.” I think we should take Jesus at his word. Prayer is powerful. Prayer can change things. Identify one place in the world, or one situation in the world, that you can devote your prayer to, to make a change, and make the world a better place.
2. Pray for opportunities to serve, and then keep your eyes open. Our mission will often not be grand. It’s the little things, the small ways that we serve, a smile, a handshake, a hug, so that people come away from interacting with us feeling better, hopeful, like there is kindness, and goodness, and love in the world. That’s what we are called to be and to do. Pray for an opportunity to make things better in some small way, and be alert for that opportunity.
3. Look for opportunities at the Church of the Redeemer. If you see something that can be improved, get involved with improving it. If you see a ministry that you think would be enjoyable or meaningful to you, join it. Our church is not a big one in terms of numbers of bodies, but it is very big in terms of spiritual vitality, energy, and activity. There is something here for everyone, and it is easy to become a part of whatever is calling to you, or to start a new ministry that you believe is needed.

In speaking of the body of Christ, St. Paul evoked the image of different individuals acting as different members of the body, by which he meant different organs. Each one carries out a different function, and each is equally important. "For just as the body is one and has many members, and all the members of the body, though many, are one body, so it is with Christ. ... If the whole body were an eye, where would be the sense of hearing? If the whole body were an ear, where would be the sense of smell? ... There are many parts, yet one body."

So we don't all have to be Gary Powell. God does not want all of us to be Gary Powell. We each have a different role to play, a different function to fulfill. In Paul's day, there was no conception of molecular biology or the existence of cells. Had there been this knowledge then, I think that Paul might have spoken about cells of the body of Christ rather than members. This is how I think of our role as individuals in the body of Christ – not an eye or an ear or a foot, but a humble cell, along with millions of other cells, trying to do the small but critically important things that a cell does to sustain the life of the body and to create more cells to carry out that work.

Start small, start here, and start now.

-Wallace

Christian Education

I hope everyone is having a joyful Easter season. The church was simply beautiful. From all the gorgeous flowers that filled the sanctuary, to Fr. Mark's inspiring sermon, to all the smiling happy faces that filled the pews. The egg hunt was a success and Pink Mama's Ice Cream Truck was a hit for all! Thank you to everyone that donated goodies for the eggs and thank you to the youth that stuffed and hid the eggs. It all takes team work and we are all part of that wonderful team here at Redeemer. Jesus is our incredible coach and counselor! He continues to show us the way to be the hands and feet of His church. It is so easy and natural for us to think we are the ones in control of our lives: at home, at work, even at church. Yet, Jesus is always right there with us, waiting for us to draw closer to Him. To seek Him in everything we do, and He is the one with the answers, if only we will hear Him.

Sunday school classes for the youth will end on May 19. Thank you so much to all the teachers that devote their time and talent to the youth of Redeemer. We truly cannot thank you all enough for sharing your love and faith with our children: Katie and Larry Broderick, Meg Coffey, Judy Derrick, Ann Meade, June Moore, Kathy Shugart.

On May 19 the youth will lead the church service. Afterwards, we will celebrate our youth of the church and our amazing teachers.

Although we break from our traditional Sunday school classes there is still a lot going on during the summer. Plan on joining us as we begin our third year of S.O.S., June 10-14. We plan on visiting places like: Miracle Hill Men's Rescue Mission, Samaritan House, Pleasant Valley Connection, and having another First Responder's lunch at the church. It is a very special week and I hope you can join us!

God's Peace,

Lori

GIVING THANKS!!

Once again our Redeemer family has given generously from their hearts to the United Thank Offering by lifting up their many blessings during our spring ingathering. I thank each of you who participated by donating the $688.74 representing your thanks for the many blessings in your life, both big and small! We now have the opportunity to start fresh for the next six months until our fall ingathering. To those who follow the practice of putting coins in your Blue Box daily, thank you. For those of you who would like to begin this practice, Blue Boxes are available at the information center. There is also information about the United Thank Offering for you to take home. We at Redeemer have been blessed so many times it doesn't take long to fill up a box. I know I am very grateful for my church family and all that you bring into my life.

"And who is my neighbor?"

This was the question posed to Jesus that led to the telling of one of his best-known parables, the Good Samaritan. The lesson of the parable, of course, is that it was the Samaritan, a member of a group that was distrusted and despised by the Jews, who showed brotherly love and compassion to a Jew who had been robbed, beaten, and left for dead.

In a similar vein, the Cherokee have a prayer they recite when they "go to water" by wading into a river to cleanse their spirit: "Wash away any thoughts or feelings that may hinder me from being closer to my God. Take away any thoughts or feelings that may hinder me from being closer to all my brothers and sisters on the earth."

In the final three weeks of this school year's adult Sunday School classes, we will be exploring how we can better understand and get along with persons of other faiths and backgrounds, as well as what a church like Redeemer can do to promote tolerance, understanding, face-to-face dialogue, and reconciliation in a world of increasing turbulence and religious polarization.

We will be bringing in guest speakers to provide an overview of their faith and to dispel common misconceptions about it.

See www.atlanticinstitutesc.org.

Please join us for this important discussion. These classes will be held in Purser Hall following the 9:30 service.

Do you have someone on "Prayers of the People" list that is not a member of our church?

Would you like for this person to know that Redeemer is praying for them each week?

If so, please provide me with the address of person and I will send them a hand written note, from The Church of the Redeemer, letting them know they are in our thoughts and prayers.

Beth Hamilton ~ 313-2406

Counters Needed

We are in need of more counters for Sunday after services. Counting requires two unrelated individuals to meet after service to count the offering monies. This takes about 10 minutes after church, it is easy, you work with a partner and it is a very important ministry! Please see or call Jane Bouton 864-907-5362 if you can help.

Flowers on the altar are more than just an adornment for the front of our sanctuary.

It is an historical tradition to show our thanks and humility to the Lord. It is a symbol of recognition of His Glory.

Dedicating the offering in the name of someone is a great honor. Our 2019 Altar dedication book is on the communication table for special dedications to be made. Special requests for flower type, color or arrangement style can be noted.

Dedications are only $35, but the awe of honoring his Glory cannot be measured.

The 2019 camp will focus on:

- Exposing the children to cultural and educational events around Greenville.
- Specific area tutoring to prep student for new grade level where needed.
- Reading Book Club with added writing skills.
- Swimming and sports activities.
- Cooking and nutrition education.

Samaritan House

Samaritan House, presently located in a building loaned to us by Augusta Heights Baptist Church, is seeing record numbers of clients. For the last several years, we have only allowed clients to come once each month. This resulted in calls toward the end of the month, asking to be allowed to get more food.

We have presently moved to letting clients come twice in a one month period. In March we had 412 visits, serving 1,146 persons. This was 286 persons served per week. We distribute approximately 3,000 pounds of food per week which breaks down to about 30 pounds per family. The result of twice a month visits has been that people are not calling for extra food at the end of month.

Where do we get this much food? Harvest Hope, located in Greenville and one of two food banks in the state, allows us to get food each week, based on our monthly reports to them. They charge a modest amount of money per pound on some food, and other donations are free. We are also a part of Loaves and Fishes which travels around Greenville, picking up expired, or soon to be out of date, food from groceries and restaurants. Other food donations come from our six supporting churches.

The money that we and several other churches provide goes to paying our utilities, purchasing some food from Harvest Hope, transporting food, paying our director's stipend, and supplying all the office materials we need to file reports and keep track of our clients.

Steve Fior, our director, keeps track of all of this and keeps the facility in pristine order. We are so thankful to have him! Please feel free to stop by Samaritan House any Thursday from 9am-12pm to witness the operation in action. During our Summer of Service week, we will have a special opportunity to help. This is a great ministry, helping those truly in need.
